WHEREAS, Glade Spring, also known as Glade Spring Depot, began to develop after the arrival of the Norfolk Southern Railway in the mid-1800s, then grew rapidly in the decade after the end of the Civil War; and

WHEREAS, officially incorporated in 1875, the Town of Glade Spring was established on 780.8 acres in Washington County and continued to thrive as a crucial railroad shipping yard for produce, livestock, and other local goods; and

WHEREAS, the former Virginia Intermont College, originally known as the Southwest Virginia Institute, was first established in Glade Spring in 1884, and the town is home to several other historic sites; and

WHEREAS, now located just off Interstate 81, Glade Spring has enjoyed steady growth with the development of new homes and subdivisions, modern amenities, and attractions like the Salt Trail on the former site of the Saltville Branch rail line, which have made the community “the place” to live, work, and raise a family, all while maintaining its rural charm; and

WHEREAS, Glade Spring will proudly commemorate its 150th anniversary with a series of year-long events, including charter day festivities, a Fourth of July extravaganza, concerts in the park, athletic competitions, parades, and programs benefiting each and every member of the community; now, therefore, be it
